Age-friendly social infrastructure in the context of COVID-19

Dr Sophie Yarker
The University of Manchester
Overview

1. Importance of social infrastructure for age-friendly work
2. Implications of social distancing for older people
3. Current adaptations being made
4. Going forward; maintaining age-friendly principles in social infrastructure
Social Infrastructure;

the physical places and organisations that shape the way people interact

Klinenberg, 2018, pp.5
When social infrastructure is robust, it fosters contact, mutual support, and collaboration among friends and neighbours; when it is degraded, it inhibits social activity, leaving families and individuals to fend for themselves.

Klinenberg, 2018
• 12,000 public spaces have been sold off by UK Councils since 2010 (Hitchen and Shaw, 2019)

• 800 libraries closed across the UK since 2010

• English and Welsh town centres have lost 8% of their shops on average since 2013
Implications of restricted access to social infrastructure for older people

- Cut off from social connections and support networks
- Alienation from locally based support
- Health and wellbeing
- Not feeling visible or valued
Adaptations

Keeping LGBT people connected over a cuppa

WE'RE HERE IF YOU NEED US  lgbt.foundation/rainbowbrewbuddies  0345 330 30 30

Age UK Oldham  @ageukoldham  ·  8 Jun
Our freshly cooked meals are still going down a treat. A weekly supply of wholesome food freshly cooked and frozen delivered to your home for £15 is still available to anyone interested. Just give us a call on 0161 633 0213 #OldhamHour #TeamOldham

Moving with limited mobility #KeepGMMoving
Going forward: maintaining age-friendly principles
Age-friendly recovery must include our shared spaces

- Social aspect of our shared spaces remains crucial even whilst observing social distancing

- Social infrastructure can still provide spaces of informal non-verbal contact and encounters with difference

- This is vital for older people’s sense of connection to people and place
Age-friendly recovery must include our shared spaces

- Smaller moments of social connection might become more important for all of us
- Social distancing should not lead to lack of social solidarity
- A stronger sense of the collective is needed if we are to appeal to people to ‘stay alert’ and act in ways that contribute to the greater good.

We Need Social Solidarity, Not Just Social Distancing

To combat the coronavirus, Americans need to do more than secure their own safety.

By Eric Klinenberg
Dr. Klinenberg is a sociologist.

March 14, 2020
Dr Sophie Yarker
University of Manchester
Sophie.yarker@Manchester.ac.uk

Led by:
Greater Manchester Centre for Voluntary Organisation
St Thomas Centre
Ardwick Green North
Manchester M12 6FZ

T: 0161 277 1000
W: www.ambitionforageing.org.uk