

The Manchester Historian

read it, write it

The Manchester Historian is a growing magazine seeking writers studying a single or joint honours History degree to write articles, interviews and reviews with an historical slant to chronicle our vibrant and fast-changing world.

In return, the Historian offers a great opportunity for budding journalists to gain experience as well as for students to develop writing and research skills to complement their degree and their employability.

View our previous issues at <http://issuu.com/manchesterhistorian>

No experience is necessary; we are simply looking for an interested and enthusiastic team of writers and contributors. We welcome article suggestions too, so whether you'd like to write it or not, please contact us at any time during the year with your ideas.

Click on or search the links below to get in touch.

t: @TheMcrHistorian

w: manchesterhistorian.com

f: facebook.com/TheManchesterHistorian

e: manchesterhistorian@gmail.com