

Your Room Number Explained

Generally, all halls of residence room numbers follow the same format and that is:

Floor.flat.room

By this we mean the first numbers will be the floor, followed by the flat number or letter, followed by your room number within the flat. For example, room 01.05.01 in George Kenyon Hall can be explained as:

There are some exceptions to this where a block identifier may be used at the start and therefore to make it easier to understand, all halls of residence are listed below in alphabetical order with all blocks at each hall listed along with an explanation of how the room number is made up.
