Planned Downtime on University Shared Network Storage

Over the next few months, IT Services need to replace the equipment which runs many of our shared network storage areas. You may know these areas as your “S: Drive”, “G: drive” or similar.

While this will result in improved performance, this means that some shared network areas will be inaccessible for up to four hours during March and April. Staff in The Faculty of Humanities may be affected on Tuesday 20 or Tuesday 27 March.

Your personal network storage (P: drive) is not affected.

To find out if you’re affected, please visit the IT Services website:

- Storage maintenance for The Faculty of Humanities

If you have any further questions about this work, please let Jennifer Scibilia and Natalie Gent know by Tuesday 6 March.

General Data Protection Requirements (GDPR)

As noted under “Housekeeping” below (and as signaled in previous bulletins) the new General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) will apply in the UK from 25 May 2018, when it supersedes the UK Data Protection Act 1998. Frankly, what we are required to do to be compliant is “challenging”, but understandable in terms of privacy and risk. (You can follow-up on the current University Data Protection website.)

University comms on this has not been “selective”. Heads of School were given a brief on this in January, and I have briefed Heads of Department following a discussion of this at HPRC last week.

The first thing staff must do, before, May is complete the MANDATORY on-line training: TBF26 Data Protection (it is delivered on-line via Blackboard and takes 30 minutes). My understanding is that “individual” non-compliance will result in “individual” IT sanctions.

Beyond this and moving forward so that as an institution we are compliant, every member of the staff is required to

- delete all emails containing duplicate personal data (e.g., CV's), but ...
- archive critical emails and attachments as per the Records Retention Schedule
- delete all emails older than 3 years with the following observations:

- Delete, here, means permanently delete (“shift-delete” on Outlook).
- Moving email older than 3 years to another repository rather than deleting is NOT lawful and breaches the GDPR; this needs to be clearly understood.
- Although duplicates should be deleted, relevant and necessary information should be retained (e.g., recruitment documents, staff letters, PDR documents) but moved to an appropriate repository.

So, “What to do???”

Apart from the training, which is mandatory, what I then suggest (in addition, and following completion of the training) is that all staff at least begin the process of (permanently) deleting demonstrably unnecessary emails (and attachments) which are older than three years. The University, and School, does have secure shared storage space where necessary personal documents and information can be, and is, stored - so that “duplicates” within staff emails can be deleted.

In most cases, I expect this will be just a process of deleting duplicates but, if not, you should move any “necessary” documents to the appropriate central storage, according to the timeline guidance from the Records Retention Schedule (e.g., staff recruitment documents will be stored on JobTrain, so there is no need to keep these; PDRs can, and should, be archived to the SoSS secure network drive – staff must of course retain their “own” PDR documents for their own records).

If in doubt about the “necessity” of some document, mark/flag and retain it until further robust guidance is forthcoming.

Concerns were raised by Heads of School regarding the communications plan surrounding the GDPR and the level of support and guidance that would be provided to leaders to help ensure all staff are compliant by 25th May 2018. We have been assured that central communications were in process and guidance would be forthcoming to leaders with a consistent message to enable and support the requirements.

I know that this is not going to be a particularly palatable exercise.

Finally,

We are nearing the end of the second week of strike action and, although there has been some movement on talks, I think we all fully expect more disruption next week.

I have written to all students and also responded individually when contacted. Of course, and understandably, the two main concerns are “how this will affect my assessment, progression, marks” and the vexed question of “composite fees and compensation”. On the first of these, I have responded along the lines that this will certainly involve “moderation” of any affected modules, and where it is feasible moderation of exam and/or assessment rubric – although this will have numerous challenges. We will also look at deadlines for coursework, delayed feedback, and their effects. In each case, though, my overriding priority is that no student is disadvantaged by the current strike action. I am reluctant to formally commit to an action, now, which says that “we (specifically) will do this or that” when in retrospect (given the heterogeneous way the effects of the industrial action may fall) it is found that the prescribed course of action would disadvantage certain students. On fees, and as most students have graciously noted, I have less direct control or power to act – but continue to communicate all students’ demands on this to the President’s office.

I will be following up this bulletin with a reminder staff email to inform me of strike action (and days) taken by 1st March. Thank you to all those who have already been in touch to confirm this.

TEACHING & LEARNING

School Director, Ken Clark

The NSS is open until the 29th of April and the response rate across the University is low compared to last year at the same time (18.6% compared to 28.7%). Despite UG Home tuition fees now being frozen, the Student Union at Manchester is recommending that students boycott the survey. However with subject-level TEF around the corner it is vital that we are able to demonstrate to the outside world the improvements that we have been making in teaching and learning: poor performance in TEF could have damaging consequences for our reputation and recruitment. The Union’s campaign, while undoubtedly motivated by genuine concerns about higher education, is misleading and confused in a number of respects. For example it makes unsubstantiated claims about how the NSS is biased against particular groups. It also simultaneously calls for a boycott of the NSS while bemoaning that fact that response rates in the NSS are too low. Finally it criticises how the NSS measures the quality of teaching before urging students to complete an alternative, but much less reliable, survey (the Manchester Student Survey) which is based entirely on the NSS questionnaire. The University's position is that the NSS represents the best tool that we have to monitor and improve what we deliver to students. Colleagues are therefore urged to assist in getting as many third year students as possible to complete the survey. Your teaching and learning leads in Departments will have a plan to promote the survey – please support them in this activity.

CHERIL Grants

The University's Centre for Higher Education Research, Innovation and Learning (CHERIL) offers grants of up to £20K for research into higher education practice. This year they are particularly interested in bids relating to the University's strategic goals in teaching and learning:

- o Excellent teaching
- o Distinctive graduate attributes
- o Making a difference
- o Learning through research
- o Global awareness.

This is a great opportunity to identify and promote “what works” in teaching. The deadline for applications is April 30th and full details on how to apply are available. Feel free to contact Ken Clark if you are interested in applying: there may be scope to collaborate or combine bids across the School to increase the chances of success. The School may also have data available which could provide insights or facilitate the evaluation of initiatives and interventions.

RESEARCH NEWS

School Director, Claire Alexander

RRE

The RRE period has now closed and we had 234 new submissions. Thanks to all colleagues who submitted work for review and special thanks to all those involved in reviewing the outputs. A reminder to all colleagues to ensure that all published work meets OA requirements to ensure eligibility for the REF. On acceptance, use the Library deposit form to send your Author Accepted Manuscript (AAM) to the Library via the Open Access Gateway.

New KEI officer

Welcome to Clare Canning as the SoSS new KEI officer. Clare will be working with colleagues to develop Impact Cases for REF 2021, those submitting research grants and advice for anyone wishing to develop the impact of their research.

Research Promotion – Pilot Schemes

Our new Research Promotion and Liaison manager, Jay Amin, will be working with all departments to develop their external profile in the next few months. We will be piloting a range of schemes in each department, so do please support Jay in these important projects.

Research Grants Awarded

SoSS was awarded 4 new grants in the final round of the ESRC IAA funding. Congratulations to Claire Alexander, Colette Fagan, Liz Richardson and Andy Miles/Jill Ebrey.

researchfish® A reminder to all colleagues who have had RCUK funding that the deadline for completion of their annual return to researchfish® is due on 15th March. Providing this information via researchfish® is a condition of RCUK funding, and failure to do so by the deadline may affect eligibility for future RCUK funding and lead to suspension of ongoing payments for any current award you may have. Additional guidance can be found on the RCUK website by clicking on this link <http://www.rcuk.ac.uk/research/researchoutcomes/>

POSTGRADUATE RESEARCH

School Director, Stuart Shields

SoSS Lewis Prize for Social Responsibility

SoSS has launched a new prize — the Lewis Prize for Social Responsibility. The 2017 prize of £500 will be awarded for the completed PhD thesis that makes the greatest contribution to research with a social responsibility aspect. All PhD theses signed off by the School's Director of Postgraduate Research in the year 1 October 2016 to 30 September 2017 with an A(i) or A(ii) recommendation (pass/pass with minor corrections) are eligible.

Please consider nominating your (ex-)student(s). We have also emailed the students themselves, since self-nominations are also accepted.

Further information and the nomination form are attached; the deadline for nomination is 5pm on 1 March 2018. Please get in touch with Helen Beebee if you have a question that the attached document doesn't answer.

If you do decide to nominate a student, please do let them know — partly because they will probably be pleased; partly to avoid two different nominations for the same person; and partly because you might reasonably ask them to draft the supporting statement themselves!

MDC Excellence Awards

We've already had the nominations for the DAA PGR Student of the Year 2017/18. They've been submitted to MDC. Now we have the next stage and the remainder of the MDC Excellence Awards:

MDC Awards

- Best Outstanding Output - one award per Faculty
- Best Contribution to PGR Environment – one overall award
- Best Contribution to Society – one overall award
- Best Contribution to Internationalisation – one overall award
- Best Supervisor of the Year – one award per Faculty

The School deadline for submission of nominations and referee letters by PGR Directors to Bernadette O'Connor is 5pm March 21st.

Further details of the awards, including the criteria against which nominations are judged, the process, and full timetable can be found at the end of this newsletter.

Student Lifecycle Project

The success of the SLP is reliant on the continued engagement of colleagues from across the University, so we hope that you are able to contribute to the Project again in a future phase.

<http://www.dse.manchester.ac.uk/our-projects/student-lifecycle/timeline/>

Opportunities to take part will be advertised in the monthly SLP newsletter, <http://www.dse.manchester.ac.uk/our-projects/student-lifecycle/signup/> alongside news and updates from the Project team. Please encourage your teams to sign up if they haven't done so already and direct any questions to studentlifecycleproject@manchester.ac.uk.

Manchester China Institute Website Now Available

The website for the new Manchester China Institute, which promotes mutual understanding in UK-China relations, is now live. You can read about the Institute's mission, research, and people, and keep up to date with its news and resources.

The Institute was announced in December last year, following a £5m donation by retired Hong Kong businessman, philanthropist and Honorary Graduate of the University of Manchester, Dr Lee Kai Hung. It will seek to improve mutual understanding in UK-China relations, and establish a new Chinese culture gallery at the Manchester Museum.

Information Governance

Data Protection

To remind colleagues:

Many staff regularly handle personal data of staff, students, research participants and others. For example, it's common practice to create files of all relevant data relating to an individual student or member of staff, as a record of that person's time studying or working at the University. The University must process personal data according to the principles set out in the Data Protection Act 1998. The requirement to comply with this Act, in protecting the rights and privacy of individuals, imposes certain responsibilities which staff must fully understand. Failures or weaknesses in our processing of personal data can result in significant harm and distress to individuals who may be affected and may also cause significant reputational damage to the University.

As noted in Chris' opening remarks above, in order to begin preparations for the new General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) which will apply in the UK from 25 May 2018 it is a requirement in SoSS that every member of staff – academic & PSS undertake Data Protection Training. While 45% of staff have completed the training it is recommended that it is repeated every two years and SLT have taken the decision that all staff need to undertake this training this year. It is an on-line course so even if you are overseas you can still complete this.

Data Protection Course

 Please be aware that if the data protection course is not completed by the 25 May the sanction will be you will not be able to access emails. So it is imperative that you complete this as soon as possible.

Another new rule will be that the use of UoM email address for non-work transactions will no longer be allowed, so staff should ensure that they have set up a personal email account in plenty of time prior to 25 May for non-work transactions. .

There will be further guidance around email housekeeping in the near future as well as on paper based records.

Investing in Success

Investing in Success is a University funded scheme open to all staff to explore ideas, create new projects and invest in their personal development.

The scheme will identify and support individual members of staff or teams from right across the University, irrespective of grade or position. We are looking for people who could benefit from extra resources to help them engage in a particular project or activity, which in turn will accelerate their personal development and benefit the University.

Do you have an innovative idea that could enhance the way you work? Would you like to attend a conference overseas or arrange a work exchange? If you'd like to get a project off the ground, engage in activity or benefit from specific training, Invest in Success could enable you to maximise your potential and the contribution you make to the University.

The scheme is open to all members of staff regardless of their role, area of work or grade and is aimed at supporting your continued growth as teachers, researchers, managers, professionals and support staff. Follow the links below to find out more and complete your application.

Funding and Application

The maximum allocation for any project will be £10,000. The total fund available for the scheme will be £1 million. Funding is available to all paid staff regardless of your grade or contract type. If you're on a fixed-term contract you need to have completed at least 12 months' service and still have 12 months remaining.

Bids should be no more than 1,000 words (roughly two sides of A4) and should address the benefits to your personal development, to the University, students and/or other stakeholders. Assessable outcomes should be clearly identified, along with the possible avenues of further development of the activity after the supported work is completed. Projects will need to be completed by October 2018 and any funds requested allocated by October 2018.

There are no definitive guidelines for the types of projects or activities that might be supported, but they should be innovative, contribute to that individual's personal growth and development, and be capable of generating a return on investment for the University or inform future practice.

On completion of your project or activity you'll be required to outline your personal growth, benefits to the University and potential for future development and learning. You'll also be invited to take part in a closing event to showcase the work you have done.

Application must be made as individuals or as a team via the link below.

Apply now

Closing dates for applications is 16 March 2018.

SoSS Student Naomi is Indoor Triple Jump Champ

A politics and quantitative methods student from The University of Manchester has been crowned Britain's indoor triple jump champion in Birmingham.

Naomi Ogbeta, beat off the best in the UK at the Spar British Athletics Indoor Championships this weekend.

The athlete, thought of as the brightest talent British triple jumping has had for some time, hopped, stepped and jumped to a British U23 Indoor Record of 13.65m and the British Indoor title.

The success bettered her jump of 13.52m in January, when she was the stand out performer at the Bratislava indoor competition.

The top-ranked Brit has represented both GB Juniors and England seniors in a host of international competitions.

She will find out soon if she is to be selected for the IAAF World indoor championships.

Last year she was one of five student athletes to receive a Talented Athlete Scholarship Scheme Stars Award.

“There’s quite a bit of similarity between improv and athletics. You just don’t know what’s going to happen on stage and you don’t know how far you are going to jump”

MDC Excellence Awards 2017/2018

The annual MDC Excellence Awards were established in 2014 in recognition of the achievements of our postgraduate research students and celebrate their success. This year sees the introduction of a new award for Best Supervisor of the Year.

Awards for 2017/2018 will be given in six categories:

- PGR Student of the Year (President's Distinguished Achievement Award)
- Best Outstanding Output
- Best Contribution to PGR Environment
- Best Contribution to Society
- Best Contribution to Internationalisation
- Best Supervisor of the Year

PGR Student of the Year (President's Distinguished Achievement Award) (one award per faculty)

The nominee should be an outstanding research student who has excelled in some significant manner, for example after the presentation of a thesis, based on the recommendation and judgment of the external examiner; or has had a major research achievement during a PGR programme – e.g. high quality journal publications; research spin off, etc.

Best Outstanding Output (one award per faculty)

The Best Outstanding Output award recognises research outputs of the highest quality and acknowledges the continuing importance of high quality research to the University.

Best Contribution to PGR Environment (one overall award)

The Best Contribution to PGR Environment award recognises outstanding achievement/contribution of an individual towards the enhancement of the postgraduate environment. An award will be made to a student who has made a positive impact, demonstrated innovation and creativity in their actions, and been an inspirational role model to other students. Examples of this include organising events which bring together the postgraduate community; identifying an area of development within the postgraduate community and providing a solution to this.

Best Contribution to Society (one overall award)

The Best Contribution to Society award recognises outstanding achievement/contribution of an individual who has offered their time and energy to make a difference to the social and economic well-being of our communities. Examples of this could include community volunteering, working with local schools or charities, organising public engagement events/activities.

Best Contribution to Internationalisation (one overall award)

The Best Contribution to Internationalisation award will be made to a student who, in the opinion of the MDC Panel, encapsulates the spirit of internationalisation at Manchester. Examples of this include a student that has demonstrated their ability to work internationally and be an exemplar global citizen; a student that had driven forward an initiative to enhance the international student experience at Manchester.

Best Supervisor of the Year (one award per faculty)

The nominee should be an individual who has created the most supportive, stimulating and inspirational research environment for doctoral students.

1. Criteria for Postgraduate Research Student Awards

- a) At the time of being nominated for an award, students must be registered for a postgraduate research degree at the University of Manchester, be under examination for a postgraduate research degree at the University of Manchester or have completed their doctoral degree within the past six months.¹

2. Making a Postgraduate Research Student Award Nomination

- a) Faculties are asked to coordinate their nominations so that;
- a single submission can be considered for the PGR Student of the Year
 - a single submission for the Best Outstanding Output
 - a single submission can be considered for the Best Contribution to PGR Environment
 - a single submission can be considered for the Best Contribution to Society
 - a single submission for the Best Contribution to Internationalisation
- b) All nominations must be made via the Faculty. Nominations made directly to MDC will not be considered
- c) A decision on which Faculty nominations will go forward to MDC will be undertaken at the respective Faculty meetings. These meetings will only review nominations coming directly through the Schools and that have been subsequently approved for consideration.

For timeframes and details of where nominations should be made please use the following contacts;

- Faculty of Biology, Medicine and Health – doctoralacademy@manchester.ac.uk
 - Faculty of Humanities – Louise.davies@manchester.ac.uk
