Calling all food makers...
We're serving up
a great opportunity.

Open Day: 26th July

University Place, Oxford Road • Drop in session 3-7pm

Thank you for looking at The University of Manchester Market to sell your goods. The University of Manchester holds a special place in history. Our origins as England's first civic university are closely linked to Manchester's development as the world's first industrial city.

We were formed at the birth of the modern world and our founders invested us with progressive principles and a desire to improve people's lives through research and teaching.

Manchester is in the heights of a dizzying food revolution. With nothing as popular as a new generation of food halls which combine the freshest locally sourced street food with a bustling, informal dining experience.

The University of Manchester are now set to open a unique market space providing passionate and independent local street vendors with a year round food hall for serving up authentic and honest food.

The space will have a rustic feel and will have an audience of 42,000 students and 12,000 University staff.

Spaces available include:

- permanent hot units which will be rented on a term by term basis
- chilled and ambient units which can be rented 1 day a week on a termly basis.

The units provide a year round, weatherproof solution for trading, with a large shared kitchen space.

All units will be supported by University social media and marketing.
