One word can kill

Anastasiya Belova, Chemical Engineering and Analytical Science

What are you running from? The world is by far not the nicest place, there are people like you and me, who want to be happy, who might have been running from problems, challenges and hardships they faced, they tripped over and fell. Nobody saw them, no one was there to give a hand, a cheerful smile, a word of reassurance when the legs were giving in. Next time you are running away. STOP. Face the reality you are living. There are people walking, sitting, talking beside you. One glance, one word can kill or bring somebody back to life.
