

Social Justice Photography Competition Shortlisted Entry 2018

“the few” and “the many”

Yitong Xie, Social Sciences

'The few' (the 1% of the world's population who own 50% of the total global wealth) and 'the many' (the 99% of the world's population owning the rest of the total global wealth) share the same physical world. However, the two groups are divided in terms of the quality of their lives and the opportunities available to them. The picture shows the privileges enjoyed by the 1% who live in golden skyscrapers and consume high quality products and services, while those who find themselves at the bottom of society live in decaying buildings and consume low quality products and services.

www.egc.manchester.ac.uk/socialjustice/photocomp/