

FREE CHOICE COURSE UNITS

You may apply to take 20 units of free choice units and this is the optimum stage at which to select a free choice unit. It is important that you find out for yourself the attendance and examination requirements of the unit concerned.

Please ensure that you choose a course from the correct year. You can tell which year and semester courses are from their code e.g. POLI20521 – the first digit indicates which year the course is – 2nd year; and the last digit indicates which semester the course is running in – semester 1. It may be possible to select a course from a year below outside of Politics but this requires specific approval.

In order to choose a free choice unit you must contact the BSocSc Politics and International Relations Programme Director to seek approval.

LANGUAGE COURSES (LEAP)

If you wish to sign up for a language course, you will be allocated according to the level you have already attained – beginner, intermediate, advanced.

For more information go to:

www.languagecentre.manchester.ac.uk/learn-a-language

If you are accepted onto a Language course, Andres Lozoya (the LEAP Administrator) will enrol you onto the Student System, so there will be no need to register on the course unit yourself.

Please note that if you have NOT studied a language course in the previous academic year you may need to obtain permission from the Programme Director before you can enrol on the course.

NB: Final year students cannot select a beginners' language course as their free choice.
