So what is the Academic Success Programme?

The Academic Success Programme consists of workshops and flexible online units in Academic English – mainly Academic Writing and Academic Grammar. It is designed to support you throughout your time at Manchester - whether or not English is your first language - to write better essays, reports and dissertations.

Should you attend the Academic Success Programme workshops?

No-one is born speaking academic English – native and non-native speakers have to learn it. We would encourage you to register for a workshop and find out for yourself. During Welcome Week, we run a series of taster workshops so you can see for yourself. All our workshops are interactive – which means you will be working with other students to share experiences and learn together by doing practical tasks.

Are the Academic Success Programme workshops online?

This year, we're hoping to give you the choice of studying online, in interactive workshops on Zoom, or in on campus workshops. Remember our flexible units – online self-study activities in Academic Writing and Grammar which you can access any time through our Blackboard community.

How do you register for and attend the Academic Success Programme workshops?

Explore the rest of this webpage to view our timetable and register for live workshops. During most of the academic year, our workshops generally run once per week.

Finally, will you earn any credits for attending the Academic Success Programme?

No, the Academic Success Programme is designed to help you with your main course and there is no assessment, and no credits are awarded. The workshops are also free of charge to all University of Manchester students.
