WE WANT TO SHOWCASE YOUR WORK!

Translational or 'bench to bedside' research can encompass anything from engineering to apps, drug discovery to diagnostics. If you are conducting exciting research that is translating basic science of any kind into exciting discoveries for patient benefit, we want to hear about it!

Enter our poster competition for the opportunity to present your work at Translational Research at Manchester 2025 event on 18th June 2025 at the Nancy Rothwell Building, University of Manchester. In addition to the opportunity to showcase your research to translational researchers from across the University and Greater Manchester NHS Trusts, we will also be awarding vouchers for the best posters in each category (PhD student, Post-doc/fellow).

To enter, please submit a 250-word abstract that contains the following information to translation@manchester.ac.uk by Friday 9th May 2025, 12 noon:

- List of Authors (including supervisors) with presenting author in bold
- Background
- Research Problem
- How did you approach the problem?
- Results
- Conclusions

To be eligible, you must be able to attend the event. Please also include your role (e.g. PhD student, Post Doc, Fellow) and make sure your supervisor is aware of your submission.

Should your abstract be shortlisted for a poster presentation, you will receive instructions and a template to use to produce your poster, which will need to be submitted within three weeks. This will need to be returned to us electronically and we will print it on your behalf, ready for you to present at the event.
