

A week in the life of our Philosophy student, Conrad

Hi, I'm Conrad and I'm in my second year studying BA Philosophy here at the University of Manchester. Picking a favourite aspect of my course is hard, especially with things being in-person now, but there's a couple things I'd be remiss not to mention. First and foremost, there's a wide range of modules to choose from, so whilst things are linked to philosophy, there's a nice variety to the things I'm learning, which I think's important. Secondly, the teaching staff here are really supportive; from my lovely Academic Advisor to my tutorial leaders, lecturers, and my course administrator, everyone's been really happy to help out with any questions, been super willing to meet and discuss my work and provided lots of helpful assessment feedback. Good luck with your exams!
