

A week in the life of our Japanese Studies student, Lascell

Hi there! My name is Lascell Taylor and I am in my final year studying Japanese at the University of Manchester! I particularly enjoy the translation classes to gain a deeper insight into how translators localise languages. I came to this University from London in 2018. I chose to study Japanese as I've been entranced by martial arts such as Kenjutsu (Japanese swordsmanship) since I was a child and I just love how cool Japanese sounds!

- Formal study hours
- Informal study hours
- Student society
- Part-time work
- Social activities

Day	08:00-09:00	09:00-10:00	10:00-11:00	11:00-12:00	12:00-13:00	13:00-14:00	14:00-15:00	15:00-16:00	16:00-17:00	17:00-18:00	18:00-19:00	19:00-20:00	20:00-21:00	21:00-22:00
Monday	Gym	Breakfast and prepare for class				Tutorial - Japanese 5, dealing with texts	Lunch with friends at the SU		Revision - Japanese Language					Gaming, Dinner and weekly shopping in Fallowfield
Tuesday	Breakfast and prepare for class					Tutorial - Japanese 5, translating literature	Lunch	Gym		Revision - Japanese Language				Gaming and Dinner
Wednesday			Lecture - Bodies, Sex, and Gender in Japan			Dissertation work		Lunch		Dissertation work				Dinner
Thursday	Breakfast and prepare for class					Tutorial - Japanese 5, Speaking and Writing	Lunch		Tutorial - Japanese 6, Speaking and Writing		Revision - Japanese Language			Gaming and Dinner
Friday	Seminar - Bodies, and Gender in Japan					Revision in the Alan Gilbert Learning Commons	Lunch		Dissertation work in the Alan Gilbert Learning Commons					Tutorial - Japanese 6, Translation
Saturday	Gym	Breakfast				Drawing	Lunch		Revision - Japanese cultural modules					Invite friends for dinner/ go out to dinner
Sunday	Gym	Breakfast				Drawing	Lunch		Dissertation work					Gaming with friends