

A week in the life of our English Language and Literature student, Hannah

Hi, I'm Hannah, currently studying in my second year of BA English Language and English Literature! I'm local to Manchester as I live in Stockport, and in my spare time I teach people to swim. I'm loving being able to spend my second year on campus, where I can spend my time in the library catching up on the reading for my course. The thing I love most about my course is the friends I've made so far across my different modules, we're always looking to help each other out! I get to read lots of novels and texts, as well as exploring the hidden origins behind the language we use today. I love being able to balance my time between getting ahead with my work, and socialising with my friends.
