

Video transcript – Patrick Hackett’s message on hybrid working

Hi, I'd like to thank everyone who has taken part in the hybrid working survey, we'll share the results with you shortly. So the government announcement that we're moving back to plan A is indeed very welcome and means that more of us can come back to work on campus.

I want to reassure you that the PS hybrid working project continues and you should speak with your manager about your hybrid working arrangements. We have learned a lot about new ways of working by listening to you and involving you in developing our approach to hybrid working.

One thing we have learned is that we won't be returning back to many of the old ways of doing things, hybrid working is very much here to stay. So we'll continue to work with you, our academic colleagues and our students to explore how hybrid working can benefit us individually, collectively in our teams and for our University as a whole.

Thank you again for your feedback and please continue to have your say in shaping our approach to hybrid working. Thank you.
