

Guardian Archives - Part 2

Guardian Editors' Correspondence Series A-D

Part 2 of the catalogue comprises the correspondence of successive Guardian editors dating from the 1890s to the 1970s i.e. C.P. Scott to Alastair Hetherington. It also includes the correspondence of the Guardian's deputy editor and northern editor, Patrick Monkhouse.

For a general description of the archive see the introduction to Part One of this catalogue.

The collections are arranged as follows:

Editor's Correspondence A Series (C. P. Scott)	pp. 2-31
Editor's Correspondence B Series (Crozier/Wadsworth)	pp. 32-138
Editor's Correspondence C Series (Hetherington)	pp.139-206
Deputy Editor's Correspondence D Series (Monkhouse)	pp.207-297

Editor's Correspondence A Series (C. P. Scott)

The following is a list of the correspondence previously known as "Manchester Guardian Staff Files". These mostly comprise correspondence with staff and contributors from the period of the editorship of C.P. Scott (1872-1929). This collection is now known as the "Editor's Correspondence A Series". However, there is also some correspondence from later decades, and hence an overlap with material in the Editor's Correspondence B Series (Crozier/Wadsworth).

The collection contains about 13000 letters and other documents relating to over 1300 correspondents and members of the Manchester Guardian staff. Some of the correspondents covered in this series are also present in C.P.Scott's more general correspondence (ref. Guardian 118-132, 135, 332-336). These items are indexed in Part One of the catalogue.

The numbers in square brackets are former references assigned by the Guardian, but are now obsolete.

Editor's Correspondence B Series (Crozier/Wadsworth).

This series comprises correspondence between Guardian staff, contributors and other persons with W.P. Crozier and A. P. Wadsworth dating from approximately 1932-1956. Some of the correspondents may also be present in the "A" series (Scott) and the "C" series (Hetherington).

The bulk of the correspondence dates from the mid-1940s to 1956. Some of Wadsworth's more general correspondence can be found in series 149, an index for which can be found in the first volume of the catalogue.

UNIDENTIFIED MISCELLANEOUS MATERIAL BX/1-28

Editor's Correspondence C Series (Hetherington)

The following is a list in five sections of correspondence, files and notes dating from the editorship of H. Alastair Hetherington from 1956-75, which are contained in 40 boxes of archives presented by the Guardian in 1981. The list is intended as a finding list of the names of persons, institutions and subjects connected with the paper during the above years, and to provide reference numbers for all the documents in order that they may be more easily consulted and referred to.

These five sections consist of :

C1 Correspondence: Staff and Contributors

C2 Correspondence: Applications

C3 Correspondence: General

C4/A Internal files

C4/B Reference files

C5 Political interview notes + Name index

Some sections include items of an earlier date than 1956, especially C1 and C4, and so may overlap with Series B, but in sections C2 and C3 the majority of documents before 1969 have not survived.

The first three sections are listed in alphabetical order of correspondent. Letters from an individual are in a single sequence in chronological order, where possible. Undated items are given a number for reference purposes and placed at an appropriate point in the sequence, but this placing cannot be assumed to be accurate unless it is supported by internal evidence.

A few items have an 'A' after the main number e.g. C2/C18A/1-2. This indicates a late insertion, and there is no connection with the pre-ceding number. C2 also contains a short separate sequence grouping together joint applications for posts made by, or on behalf of, journalists made redundant by other newspapers e.g.: C2/3/1-46. "Sun" (Odhams Press) – BOLTON, Robert A....

Section C4 is listed separately, one part (C4/A) comprising files on internal matters relating to the daily running of the newspaper and its managing companies, such as production, election coverage and minutes of board meetings. The second part (C4/B) consists of files of newspaper cuttings and notes kept for future reference by the editor on newsworthy topics, such as education or Vietnam. Each part is arranged in alphabetical order of subject title, and within that subject in date order e.g. C4/A47/1-87. SYNDICATION (1954-68). (Here 'A' covers all the internal files and not only those starting with the initial A; similarly 'B' denotes all the reference files.)

A third sequence is used in section C5, which contains notes of political interviews with important politicians or administrators, conducted by Hetherington himself or occasionally by a senior journalist (as indicated in square brackets). The reports are listed as originally kept, in chronological order. The dates given are of meetings, where ascertainable, although the notes were often made some days later. In order to group together all references to individuals, a Name Index to C5 in alphabetical order has been included at the end of the list. Cross-references have been added to link all instances of a person or body appearing in the different sections, or under another name in the same section e.g.

C3/H11/1-4. HALEY, Sir William (John). (1970, see also PRESS COUNCIL, 1971). The; C5/62/1-2, /229/1-2, /263/1-4.

Some of the correspondents in this series may also be present in the A (Scott), B (Crozier/Wadsworth) and D (Monkhouse) series.

Series D Deputy Editor's Correspondence (Patrick Monkhouse)

The full name of the correspondent has been given, if it is available. Round brackets within a name indicate given names not normally used or knighthoods conferred during the period of the correspondence, or in the case of peers, their subsidiary names.

The name of a representative writing on behalf of an institution is placed in round brackets after its name.

In entries where the user is directed to See another name, the D number has been included only in those instances where there is more than one D numbered entry for the chief name.

Some of the correspondents in this series may also appear in the C Series (Hetherington).
