

A week in the life of our Modern History and Politics student, Nelly

Hi I'm Nelly! I am currently in my final year studying Modern History and Politics.

My main area of interest at the moment is politics and music culture in Britain during the Windrush period. I like studying at the University of Manchester because they offer a diverse variety of modules, spanning across a range of historical periods and countries. Classes are accessible and interesting, with innovative research-led teaching. I was drawn to Manchester because of the beautiful campus, with old historic structures like the Beyer Building and more modern areas to study the Engineering Building. The city is full of life, with so much to see and do it can seem intimidating. However, everyone is so warm and friendly. I currently live in Withington, a great student-filled suburb home to many cafes, pubs, and charity shops.

Formal study hours

Informal study hours

Student society

Part-time work

Social activities

Monday	10:00-10:30 Job interview over the phone	11:00-13:00 Work on page designs for the Mancunion at the SU	13:20-13:40 Dissertation meeting	17:00 Meal with my Dad in East Didsbury	Evening Complete readings at home ahead of lectures
Tuesday	11:00-13:00 American Politics Lecture	13:00-17:00 Study and prep lectures in the Arthur Lewis Building	18:00-19:00 Training for History Netball group	Evening Pub with friends from Netball
Wednesday	10:00-12:00 Ethical Issues in Politics Lecture	12:00-13:00 American Politics Lecture	13:00-16:00 Work on the Editing and designing in the Mancunion office	Evening Facetime my boyfriend
Thursday	11:00 Walk into Didsbury to do the weekly food shop with my housemate	13:00 Dissertation research in the Main Library	Evening History Social at the SU bar	Evening Head to Northern Quarter to watch my friend DJ
Friday	11:00-12:00 Ethical Issues in World Politics Tutorial	12:00-13:00 Go for a coffee in Kro Bar	13:00-17:0 Eat lunch and study in the Engineering building with my friends	Evening Make tea and eat with my housemates while we watch TV
Saturday	09:00-16:00 Student Ambassador work		17:00-19:00 Reading at home	Evening Go to the pub with course mates
Sunday	13:00-16:00 Walk into Didsbury to go to the cinema with friends		Evening Get Organised! Tidy room and create timetable for coming week		