Project Overview

Why societal resilience?

Helping communities to become more resilient to emergencies

Aim

To improve our approach to societal resilience so that we can target support to those in society who are most in need during disruptions or emergencies.

Objectives

Support	Activate	Reduce
Support South Yorkshire residents to improve their own resilience.	Activate those in society who can help themselves or help others.	Reduce risk and vulnerability of those most in need.

Introductions

- Duncan Shaw
- David Powell
- Andrew McClelland
- Róisín Jordan

DESIGN
1.	WHO	Build the team, identify existing partnerships, take stock of existing local resilience capabilities.	Steps 1 and 2 can be completed relatively quickly by statutory partners already engaged in societal resilience activities.

Step 3 is based on a co-production approach with wider partners such as the voluntary sector and businesses. |
| 2. | WHY | Agree the business case for enhancing local resilience capabilities. | |
| 3. | WHAT | Co-produce the strategy for enhancing local resilience capabilities. | |

IMPLEMENT

4.	WHO	Develop instrumental collaborations for enhancing local resilience capabilities.	Steps 4, 5 & 6 are part of a continuous improvement cycle. Interventions will start small, be piloted, and then roll our wider.
5.	HOW	Manage local resilience capabilities.
6.	DO	Deliver value to society through local resilience capabilities.

Workshop 1

Reviewing the business case

Draft business case

- Not starting with a blank sheet of paper.
- Developed a draft business case in partnership with LRF leads.
- Based on the National Consortium for Societal Resilience strategy and manual for societal resilience.
- With all the good things in South Yorkshire we already talked about during project initiation.

Business case structure

- Introduction and context.
- Vision, aims and objectives.
- Target groups.
- Staged work programme and timescales.
- Project benefits and risks
- Governance
- Funding
