

A WEEK IN THE LIFE: BA ANCIENT HISTORY AND ARCHAEOLOGY

HOLLY

I'm Holly, a third year Ancient History and Archaeology Student. I'm currently juggling a dissertation in Egyptological funerary archaeology, with lectures in European prehistory, my role as Social Secretary for the CAHAE Society, a vibrant social life, and several hobbies such as gaming, reading, and embroidery. Thanks to the University of Manchester's great library and study facilities, my life is made so much easier when accessing the people and resources I need to help my studies. I was drawn to Manchester for its brilliant museum, the passionate lecturers, and the beautiful buildings I'm honoured to work in. As I only live just off Oxford Road, getting to my lectures is quick and easy, with all the amenities I need right on my doorstep (the Costa on the corner comes in clutch when I need a pick me up!).
