

A WEEK IN THE LIFE: DRAMA AND FILM STUDIES

LUCY

The University of Manchester gives a great holistic education with modules in acting, directing, film studies, documentary making and many, many more. The breadth of experience it gives is incredibly valuable if you are wanting to go into the industry. I have also had so many amazing opportunities and met so many people through the filmmaking, drama and netball societies that the university offers- something I would highly recommend getting involved with!
