A WEEK IN THE LIFE: RELIGIONS AND THEOLOGY

Hi, I'm Natalie! I'm in my second year studying in the Religions and Theology department. This year, I'm focusing my studies on Ethics, World Philosophies, and Gender, Sexuality and Culture – as well as learning Ancient Greek! As a Religions and Theology student, I have a relatively small number of contact hours, allowing me to carry out more independent research. I really enjoy studying at Manchester for the freedom I have as a student to manage my own study time around socialising and taking part in society events. Apart from it being a thriving city full of lively bars and cafes, Manchester has so many hidden gems that have taken me over a year to discover – most of which I still haven't! This is one of the reasons I was drawn to study here.
