

Jordan Williams selected for England Men's Mixed Disability cricket squad

We're proud to share that Jordan Williams, an Assistant Maintenance Technician in Facilities, Maintenance, & Compliance, has been selected to represent England in the first ever cricket mixed disability squad at an international level.

For the historic series against India, players from different disciplines of disability cricket will play together in one team, with Physical Disability, Learning Disability, and Deaf players coming together to form the side.

Jordan will have away from 18 June until 4 July, during which time he will play 7 x T20 games against India's PAN Disability Team - with one of the matches scheduled to be played at the 'home of Cricket' (the Lord's).

Speaking of his incredible achievement, Jordan said: "To be selected to represent your country is always a real honour. The series is being staged around England, where I will have the privilege to take the ground at the Lord's, the home of cricket. This will be my first time at this ground and it's an opportunity I'm extremely grateful for."

Please join us in congratulating Jordan on his accomplishment and wishing him and the team the best of luck for the games!
