

A WEEK IN THE LIFE: BA DIGITAL MEDIA, CULTURE AND SOCIETY

Hi! I'm Nadia, a first-year Digital Media, Culture, and Society student at the University of Manchester. I'm in my first semester and currently doing three different modules: Researching Digital Media, where we learn about how to conduct research, Thinking Digital Media which focuses on theories, and lastly Visualising Information (my compulsory course) where we learn how to visualise data using different online tools. This week I have been focusing on my group project for my Researching Digital Media module. I'm fascinated by the ways digital technologies influence culture and society, and the course's variety of modules make learning engaging and fun. Outside of my studies, I enjoy exploring Manchester with my friends, especially for its delicious cafes and unique shops. It's the perfect place to study and experience life!
